

Scrum is an agile framework for project management, focusing on collaboration and iterative development. Trello is a visual project management tool. They work together by using Trello's boards and cards to represent Scrum artifacts like backlogs and tasks. Trello's visual interface helps teams track progress, assign tasks, and communicate effectively, aligning with Scrum's principles for efficient project completion.

